

Pamela Duncan

Biography

Pamela Duncan, BA, RN, CCRN, a certified critical care nurse providing patient care in the Medical Intensive Care Unit at Lakeland Regional Medical Center, an 851 bed private, non-profit community hospital. Pamela is currently enrolled in the MSN program at Florida Southern College and will complete her degree in June of this year. The focus of her studies has been related to pain management, nurse empowerment, and patient centered care.

Pamela has also been involved with Nursing Shared Governance throughout her professional nursing career with the past five years spent serving in the chairperson role. Following a three year term as chairperson of the Nursing Practice Council, Pamela continues to provide leadership through participation on various councils, task forces and steering committees related to improving nursing practice and patient outcomes.